Emergency Care in Rural Hospitals

Particularly important where the distance to urban tertiary care centers makes the effective triage, stabilization, and transfer of patients with the necessary and appropriate information of life and death importance.

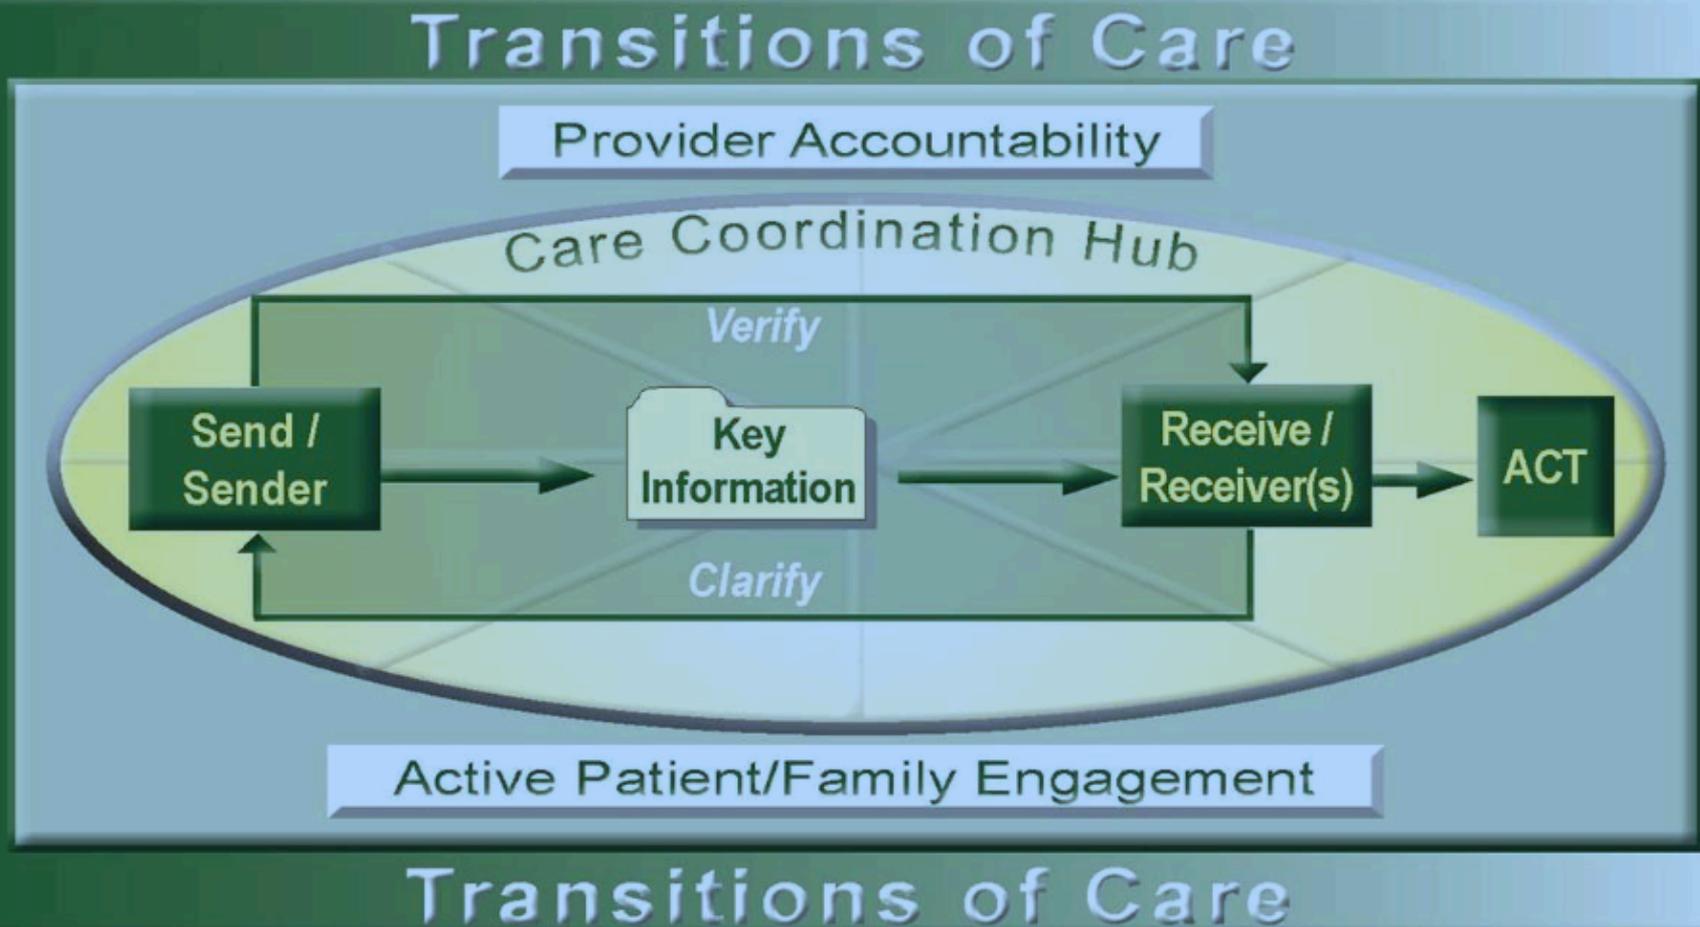

The Seven Elements of EDTC

- Administrative communication
- Patient information
- Vital signs
- Medication information
- Physician information
- Nurse information
- Procedures and tests

Conceptual Model of Transitions of Care

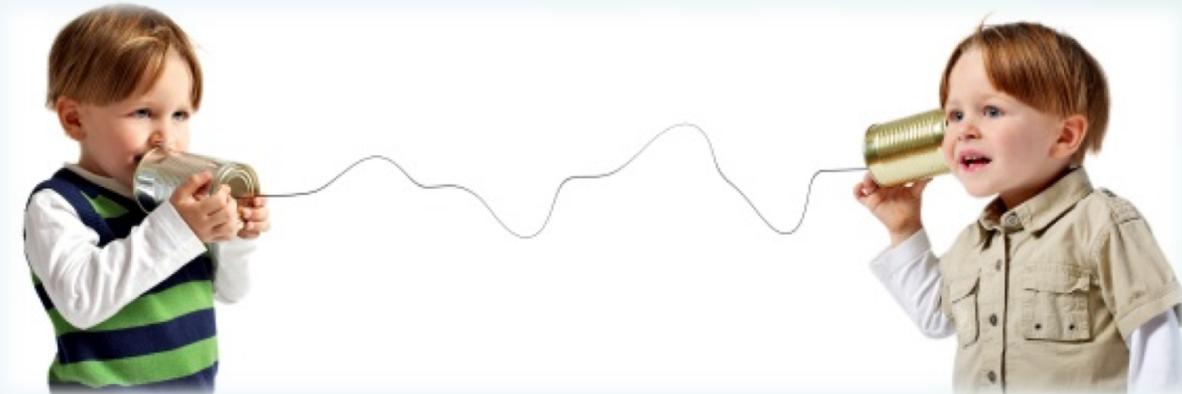

Transition of Care Interaction

Sender Accountabilities:

- Complete and timely transfer of key information
- Verification of receipt by intended recipient
- Availability to clarify or answer questions

Receiver Accountabilities:

- Timely acknowledgement of receipt of complete information
- Evaluation of information and determination of plan of care

Common Barriers Impacting Care Transitions

- Lack of an integrated care system
- Lack of standardized forms and processes
- Incompatible information systems
- Ineffective communication systems
- Failure to recognize cultural, educational, or language differences
- Compensation/performance incentives not aligned with goal of maximizing care coordination and transitions
- Care providers may not learn care coordination/team-based approaches in school
- Lack of valid measures of the quality transition

Interventions Reported by QIO's

- Updating paper transfer forms to ensure capture of all the required data elements and documentation that the information was communicated to the next setting of care.
- Implementing prompts and documentation in the electronic medical record (EMR) to ensure elements are captured and communicated to the receiving facility, either electronically or via a printed-paper form.
- Developing checklists and processes such as double-sign offs and concurrent review of records within the CAH to ensure adequate documentation and communication.
- Identifying and implementing a standardized process for documentation and transfer of information to the next setting of care.
- Staff education regarding the importance of transfer communication and implementation of new processes and forms.

Long-Term Sustained Improvement

- Open and improve lines of communication between ED and receiving facilities
- Establish key personnel focused on ED transfers

Developing an Action Plan

- Used to move from a vision to strategies to meeting objectives
- Will be unique to each hospital and the processes in place
- Should be complete, clear and current
- Should anticipate any new barriers or opportunities

Developing an Action Plan

Each action step or change should include:

- What changes or actions will occur
- Who will carry out the changes
- Start and end dates for making the changes
- Resources needed to carry out the changes
- Communication plans for the changes

Developing an Action Plan

Things to consider:

- Build in accountability
- Engage key stakeholders
- Design and standardize communications between sending and receiving organizations
- Consider revising standardized forms already in use
- Consolidate information when possible

Developing an Action Plan

Things to consider:

- Obtain buy-in from all users
- Provide staff training
- Prioritize items that are actionable
 - Address high priority items first
- Create opportunities for care organizations to visit each other's care settings to observe patient care processes and information flow

Measurement and Data Reporting

Using MBQIP Reports for QI

- MBQIP reports are provided to hospitals quarterly
- Data is valuable, but report format can be hard to interpret
- NCQC is providing an Excel template to enhance your ability to analyze and use MBQIP data
- The following instructions will show you how to use the template
