

Charles McCormick, MD, MPH

Deputy Chief Medical Officer

Alliance Health

As Deputy Chief Medical Officer at Alliance Health, Dr. McCormick provides clinical leadership for behavioral health, including supervision of the medical team and consultation for Care Management and other departments. He also provides clinical input for strategic initiatives and liaises with counterparts at health system and other community partners. Since training in psychiatry and internal medicine at Duke, he previously served on Duke faculty, working in emergency room, inpatient, and ECT and infectious disease clinic settings, and has worked as director of psychiatry at an area health system and as a hospitalist.